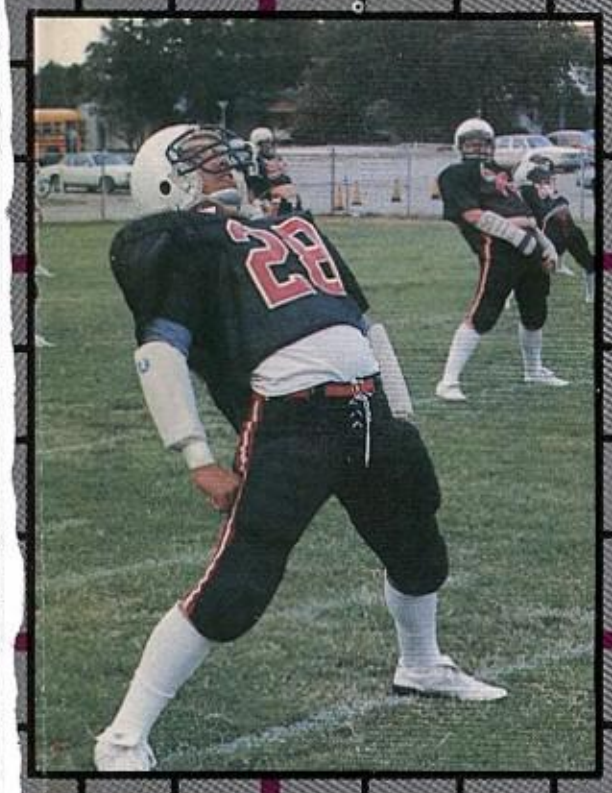
OFF THE WALL



1986 EAGLE

DIAMOND HILL - JARVIS HIGH SCHOOL
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

They used to say that all we did at DH-J was climb the walls, hold up the walls, and write on the walls.

Well Bud, 1986 changed all that! In 1986, we bounced off the walls. It wasn't that we were locked in rubber rooms. It was just that change came hard - especially in a place where tradition was sacred!

1986 was a year that freaked us out. I mean, it was radical, man. Awesome . . . And our language expressed it all. 1986 was the year to git down, git ripped, git it on, and git on it. But we stuck it out. Yeah, we hung on - even though we were off the wall!

DEDICATION

OFF THE TOP

MS. OLIVIA REYES

"What does it take to make it to the top," we used to ask her. And off the top of her head, she'd say "Dedication - to school, to homework, to people - dedication!"

She was shorter than most of us, and there were a few more worries etched on her face, but her voice carried. From the top of her head to the deepest crevices of our hearts, it carried

We heard her because sometimes she spoke with a kind of deadpan enthusiasm, and sometimes with a slapstick grin. We heard her because she cared. We heard her because she cried - with us and for us.

Dedication, Miss Reyes, is what we learned from you and what we give to you. THE dedication!

AND THEY'RE OFF

In a year that saw Halley's Comet whiz by, Mexico City fall to earthquakes, and Delta Flight 191 crash at DFW, it was with great hesitation that we started the school year. When the first bell rang, someone said "And They're Off"-but we didn't run.

Too many things had changed. When the lady "Boss," Sẽnor Rodriguez, and Mrs. Cha-Cha arrived, our traditions were turned upside down.

Teachers got off to a great start, however. They set out to prove that DH-J was no dumping ground, and that is exactly what they did. "I think our teachers are the best no matter what anyone else thinks," said Debbie Bowers.

OFF AND RUNNING

There comes a time in everyone's life when he has to tie his own shoes. Your Dad told you so when he plopped you on the edge of the bed and watched as you struggled with the laces of your tennis shoes. It didn't make much sense then. Your Dad's stayed tied longer. All yours ever did was wind up in knots. But you tried so that you could get off the bed, off and running

And at school, trying became a matter of habit. You tried out for the team, auditioned for the play, and ran for the office (or from the office).

Sometimes you tripped, sometimes you stumbled, and sometimes you fell. It was then that you picked yourself up and put yourself back on your own two feet, wearing the shoes you learned to tie so long ago when all you wanted to do was get off and running.

GETTING OFF ON IT

You got off on that last New Year's Eve Party, didn't you? You spent most of your time dancing, some of it eating and drinking, and a little of it studying the faces of the people who made it happen.

You acted the same way at school this year if you stop and think about it. You rang in the school year not with noisemakers and firecrackers like at the party, but with stink bombs and locker slams. Same difference.

And you danced down the halls when the tardy bells rang.

At school, as at the New Year's Eve bash, you did plenty of eating and drinking according to Jack and Mac.

And don't deny that you studied people at school. You studied their jams, Nikes, button downs, Topsiders, Polos, Levis . . . and what was in them.

Everyone got off on something this year!

OFF LIMITS

Changes Spark Controversy

"Diamond Hill has an excellent history and strong traditions," said Dr. Madell Bailey, DH-J's new principal. "Our job is to strengthen those traditions," she continued, speaking in regard to the policy changes made this year at school.

Hall sweeps were unpopular but did the trick. Kids began getting to class on time.

And students didn't like being told not to munch in the halls during lunch, but the school stayed clean.

Pep Rallies, for the first time in recent memory were held at 7:40 (in the A.M.) and were seldom attended by more than 100 students. To complain about that, however, you had to write your congressman. It was House Bill 72 which put a limit on assemblies.

The state legislature also decided who could wear our school colors on the football field (and the volleyball court, and the baseball diamond, and the track, etc . . .). "No Pass-NoPlay" was the name of the game. It required kids to pass all subjects before participating in extracurricular activities.

Of course, there were up sides to both the school policy and the state policy. On the one hand, shorts were finally considered appropriate dress at school, and on the other hand, workouts and rehearsals were shortened per state law.

In the end, school remained sometimes tedious and sometimes exciting "just as it had always been. Now that's tradition for you.

OFF THE RACK

A Passion For Fashion

In the beginning, there was the fig leaf. Back then, no one knew that clothing was supposed to do more than protect you from the elements .. Now, of course, it's a well known fact that clothes are supposed to represent personality as well as pop eyes.

Most DH-Jers just dressed comforably - jeans and T-shirts, khaki's and sweats. "It's better to feel good than look good" cited Toan Dinh.

Some, however, put their comfie's in moth balls this year. Style reigned supreme. Polos, Topsiders, Calvins, Nikes, jams, stirrup pants, 0.P.s, Reeboks, crop pants, jellies (and the list goes on) were the rage - THE OUTRAGE!

Even parents were surprised when their teenagers opted for psychodellic paisley pants, reminiscent of Woodstock.

Faculty members certainly were unaccustomed to seeing students in shorts.

And as always, students were unaccustomed to seeing other students wearing identical threads . . .

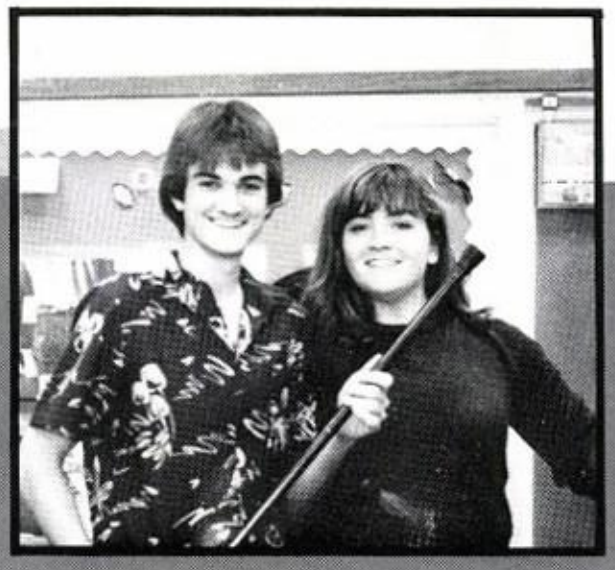
ON AND OFF



Could It Be Like, Love, Lust, or What?

"Moonlight and lovesongs never out of date . . . Heartfull of passion, jealousy and hate . . ." Whether you grew up listening to "As Time Goes By" in the 40's; "Love Me Tender" in the 50's; "Love, Love Me Do" in the 60's; "I Love You Just the Way You Are" in the 70's; or "Part-Time Lover" in the 80's, love was still love - and it was on and off.

One week you get mums, the next you get your love notes back. On Monday he makes a date for Friday. On Thursday, he says he has to work all weekend. One week he's whispering in your ear. The next week he's got another girl. He's jealous when you talk to your friends, but never has time to talk to you himself.

She expects a $75 mum, but only buys you a $10 boutineer. She talks to your best friend, and expects you not to get jealous. She makes you sit through boring love stories, and complains about your horror movies.

It's no wonder that relationships are on and off. With our friends and with our partners, we're selfish. Well, on and off . . .

TAKE IT OFF

Fright Night Feast

Nobody told us we could. Nobody made any announcements about it. Nobody arranged any prizes and everyone figured we'd get into trouble for wearing costumes-but Halloween had always been our day.

We had a lot of visitors at school that day. Did you recognize any of them? Vernard Hampton said, "It took a lot of courage to dress up. Who would want to be a boogie boy?" Some one came as a nerd, our very own Shauna Renfro. Of course, you saw Pippy Longstocking-Lisa Cassell. And Raggedy Ann-Missy Byrns. How about Rambo? Did you recognize who that was? Donald Brown. What about the Homeboy that was holding up the wall. Did you know that was Coach Stacy?

Of course, there were problems. Darrell Salzido said, "I had a costume in line, but my brother backed out of letting me use it." Amy Hopkins said that she wasn't "scared of getting into trouble for dressing up."

Well, really! So what if nobody told us we could? Nobody that we recognized showed up that day anyway.

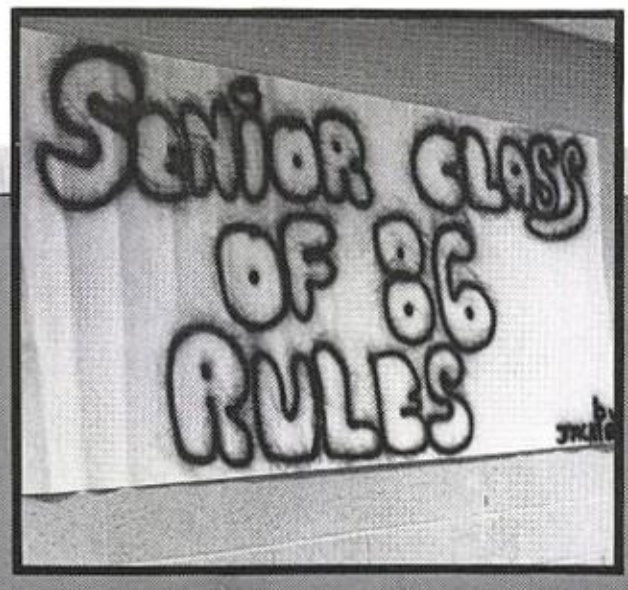
GOOF OFF



Homecoming Probs

The plans began before anyone even thought about ordering mums. They began in September Student Council meetings.

Then the possibilities seemed endless: we could have a dance or a bonfire- even a parade. Yeah, a parade. GET REAL. We must have been afraid of good change as well as bad change (in a year that brought nothing but change) because we never really got it together for the parade. There were problems with the permit, problems with the flat beds, problems, problems . . . And then problems with the weather. We just weren't meant to have a parade.

Some weren't even meant to have mums. All day girls walked around with sneers on their faces and lumps in their throats over the humiliation of it all, while others sported huge mums and conceited smiles.

When it was time for the pep rally, we geered up only to be let down. It wasn't what we expected. Nothing was. Good thing Homecoming was for alumni.

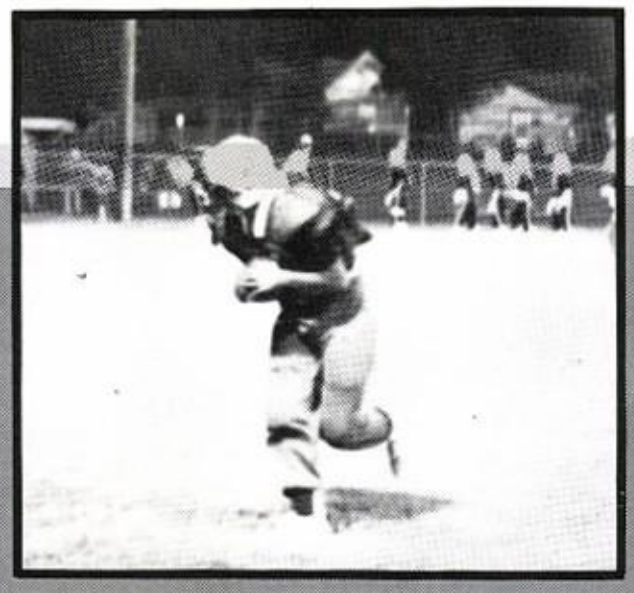
OFF SIDES



Homecoming Chills

Coach Mike Moffet once said, "They've learned to accept defeat, but not to like it" Even at the Homecoming game, Coach?

"We had them beat Homecoming night, they just got lucky" said Rene Montolvo. "That's the game we really should have won".

The Homecoming football game was the most emotional one of the year. Toan Dinh said, "Seeing that referee raise his arms took everything out of me. I actually cried."

The weather on Homecoming night did not attract as many fans as in preceeding years, but the spirit was still alive that night. The temperature was 48 degrees, the field was muddy, and some weren't sure how the game would turn out; but the people that did show up at the game were in high spirits. They arrived in high spirits, having spent the day decorating and getting geered up for the parade that never was.

The DH-J Eagle Football Team didn't really lose. They played football because they enjoyed it and wanted to put up the toughest fight of their lives.

OFF BEAT

Extra Ordinary People

As the old saying goes, "Being different pays off." Students and teachers who dressed and combed their hair differently or who had certain trademarks received attention and were talked about often by everyone. They became known for the trademarks.

When Sean Lyles was asked why he wore his hair punked, he said, "Cause it's cool, and it's in style".

"Too many kids think that teachers are robots. The buttons display my feelings. They make me human." said Ms. Montague when she was asked why she wore a different button everyday.

These students and teachers probably try to be different so that they can be looked upon differently — or separately from "ordinary people."

Racial Differences

"Hey, is your girlfriend Mexican?" "Nope, White." "Doesn't that bother you?" "Nope." "Well, don't the other guys stick it to you?" "Nope, racial differences make no difference at DH-J."

They (the people who count) said that DH-J was a racial mix. Our enrollment was 64% Hispanic, 26% white, 8% black and 2% Asian. Our figures weren't typical of America in 1986-but then neither was our attitude about race.

We were color blind. We saw people not as black, white, brown, or yellow, but as friends and teachers. Some of our parents criticized us for having friends that came from different backgrounds, but we knew that they were true friends, people we could count on. They not only taught us to persevere; they taught us to hope.

DAY OFF

Hey! It's Party Time

"Thank God It's Friday!" This was a common saying among the students of DH-J. They were ready to get out of school and head on down to the local meeting spot or the hottest party being planned for that weekend.

Taking a "day off" didn't always mean partying around on the weekend. To some people, it meant taking a breather from class (translation: SKIPPING!) Although some didn't get caught, others did and paid a pretty steep price for their mistakes.

Skipping wasn't a very big issue this year, maybe because of the hall monitor that patrolled the halls as thoroughly as possible, but for most partying was the BIGGEST issue around.

Partying like all good things at DH-J was traditional, and everyone fought to keep it that way.

TIPPED OFF

Test-Taking Tips

"Oh, man! Did you say test? Quick! What's the test over?" On the last day of each week, the most whispered phrases at DH-J didn't ruin anyone's rep or hurt anyone's feelings. Indeed, on Fridays at DH-J, the most important gossip we had to pass involved tests. "What's on the test? Do you remember the questions?"

Studying for tests was the most important homework we did. It was the ONLY homework that some of us did. But because we didn't know everything there was to know about test-taking, we often looked to the know-it-alls for advice - for tips.

Of course, teachers knew everything there was to know about tests and tips, so they realized that we tipped off those friends who were scheduled to take tests late in the day. That's why they gave different tests each period.

It seems that no matter what we did, we got fried. If we blew off the studying, every question came out of the book instead of from class discussion. If we crammed big time, we went blank after reading the first question - because a test is no piece of cake!

TICKED OFF

DH-J Blood And Guts

The clock on the wall says that another 10 minutes have passed. You've been in the vice principal's office all morning (seems like it, anyway). They tell you that fighting is one of the worst offenses in the school; then they leave you hanging while they sit in their offices on their phones. But the fact remains that you should never have been fighting in the first place. So why were you?

Chances are the person who put you in the vice principal's office was one of your friends. Maybe your best friend! And the fight could have evolved from anything: you heard he was talking about you; he was after your girlfriend; or you really never liked each other to begin with. (You hung around him to do him a favor.) And when you both expressed your true feelings, you just had to scrap it out.

Another five minutes go by. You wonder what you got out of it, and why you did it. Why did you?

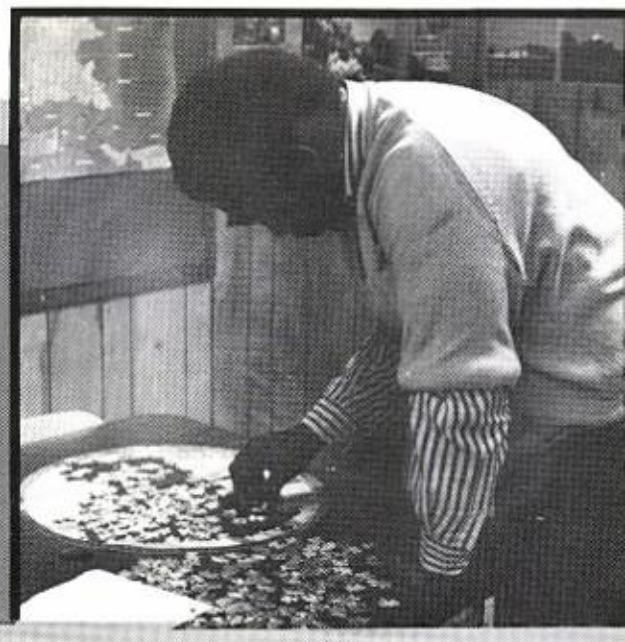
BLOW OFF



Kickback And Party!

At DH-J in 1986, everyone loved to goof-off. You couldn't walk down the hall fast enough to get away from all the freaks.

You saw people with crazy sunglasses, funky hats, and outrageous clothes. But you didn't laugh because you hadn't taken a good look in the mirror lately. Were you as weird as they?

You didn't even hear any of the things your teachers said during class because the goof balls disrupted by listening to headsets or writing notes to their friends. In typing, they just fiddled with the keys to look busy. In art, they flung water off the paint brushes. In drama, they acted like freshmen.

In band, they acted as if they could play their instruments. In chorus, they pretended they could sing. And in reading class, they slept.

"Good Heavens, I'm tired," they said when the day was over." Oh well, it's all in a day's work . . .

Dance The Night Away

On the way home from school you start to get excited. You wonder who you'll get to dance with.

The anxieties begin to prey on your mind when you get home "What am I going to wear?" "Should I go as a punk, a preppie, or a roper?"

Then the phone rings - a lot - when your friends all call to ask, "What time are you leaving?" "Can you give me a ride?" "Yeah" "Okay"

At the dance, the anxieties fade and the excitement returns. It's time to dance the night away!

SHOWING OFF

"I had a friend was a big baseball player," said the Boss in his song GLORY DAYS. In '85-'86, when Boss Springstein spoke, people listened - and ACTED! So when he implied that sports were "boss", Eagles picked up their bats, dusted off their helmets, restrung their rackets, and pumped up their volleyballs.

Every coach and player predicted a winning season, because every coach and player knew that the potential was there. It had been there for a long time.

Some Eagle teams turned predictions into realities. Some didn't. The football team scored more touchdowns than in recent years. The Varsity Volleyball girls beat teams they'd never touched before. The JV and Fish Volleyball girls whipped up on virtually everyone.

What was the best party you went to this year? Tell us about it.

The best party I attended was a Hawaiian party that we threw for my brother Johnny. The reason it was Hawaiian was because Johnny is in the U.S. Coast Guard and Hawaii was the place he was to be stationed. The party was quite different because it had the Hawaiian look with costumes, music, and of course Hula dancers.

What was the best party you went to this year?

The best party I went to this year was the New Year's Eve party at City Limits in the Stockyards. Some friends and I went out there and had a great time! We partied ALL NIGHT!!! We danced the New Year in! At one time, Roger and I danced to 6 songs in a row! He was tired, but I still could have gone for round 2. I saw a lot of people from DH-J there. It was great! I know 'dat's right!!!

What is you — ign'nt? I don't have any albums. Baby, this is the 80's. I have cassettes and discs. My favorite is U2 War because it's cool. Don't you think so?

Lydia Gomez

I have a lot of albums and tapes. I do not have a favorite, but I like to listen to Ready for the World, Bruce Springsteen, and Prince.

Runners Up

Richard Saenz

I collect as many tapes as I can. My favorite artists are Madonna, Run-DMC, Motley Crue, and of course, George Strait.

Gracie Perez

I have lots — too many to count. Most are country and rock. When I'm with my friends, we listen mostly to country (George Strait).

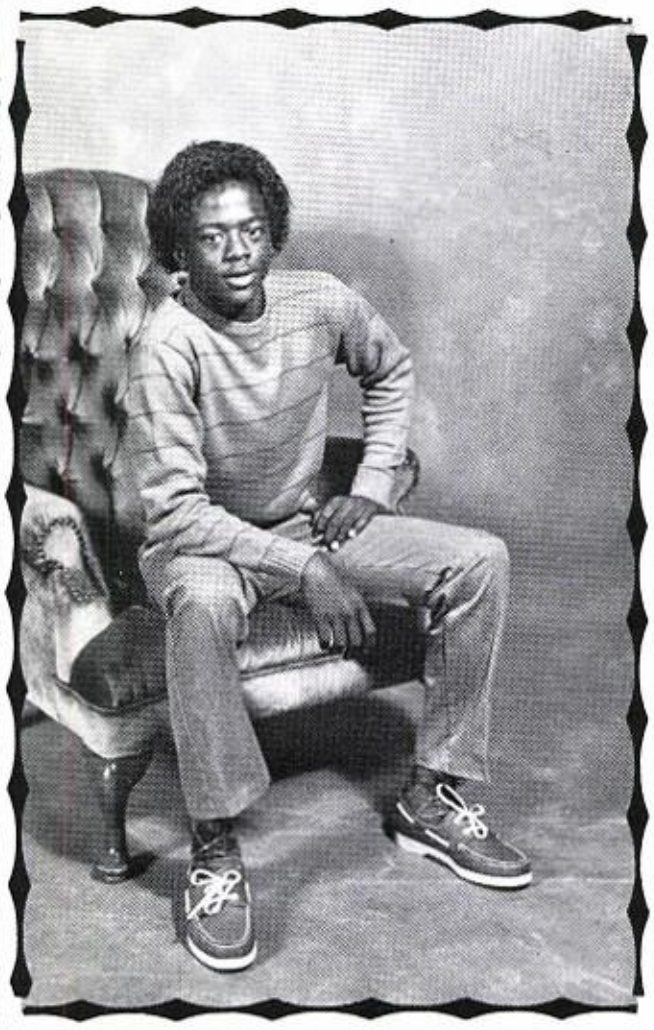
How does it feel to be a fish? Explain.

Kevin Cipriano

Being a freshman is great. Freshman life is very unique. I know this year was supposed to be one of confusion, but the pieces fell into place, and the year turned out great.

Christina Aldridge

At first, I was scared because I was coming to a school I had never been to before. Meeting new people and getting harder subjects was something to worry about. But as time went by, I found out things weren't all that bad.



Runners-Up

Larry Specks

It is nice to be a fish because I know that I'm growing into a young adult and learning about more responsibilities.

Sylvia Cantu

When I became a freshman, I was excited and nervous at the same time. I was excited because I was going to a school I had never been to, and I was nervous because I didn't know what to do.

Who's Who

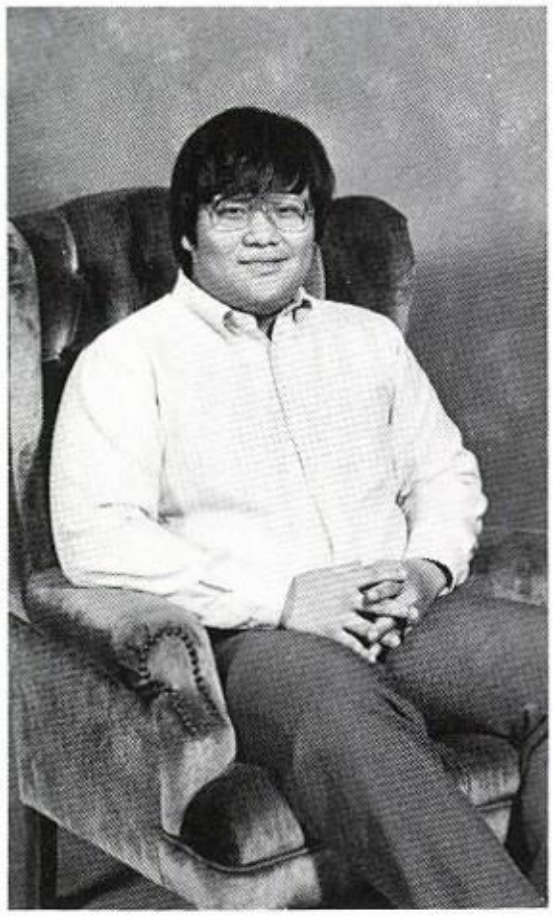
To You, What Is Success?

Athletics

Tarhonda Carr

Success to me is finishing school. Also reaching for a goal and then fulfilling it.

Language Arts



Toan Dinh

Success means that fifty years from now I'll be able to say that I've led my life to the fullest, and that I have no regrets.

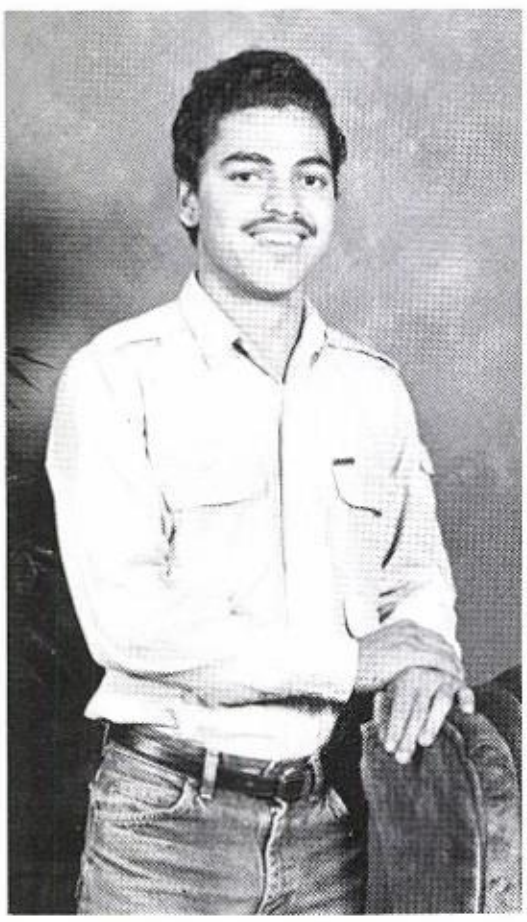
Success is a way of thinking and not a physical thing. You don't have to be rich to be a success (although it helps). You just have to be good at what you do.

Social Studies

Shelly Ford

I think if you are happy with what you are doing, then you are successful.

Physical Education



Armando Guerrero

Success to me is accomplishing the goals I have set out to accomplish. It is also becoming someone in life or doing something worthwhile. The word 'success' is a word that sums up the satisfaction you feel when you have accomplished all your goals.

Theatre

Tammi Hegwood

Success, in my opinion, is having dreams and accomplishing goals. It's being the best you can be at all you do. Instead of being what everyone else wants you to be, just be yourself. A successful person is not always rich — but always happy.

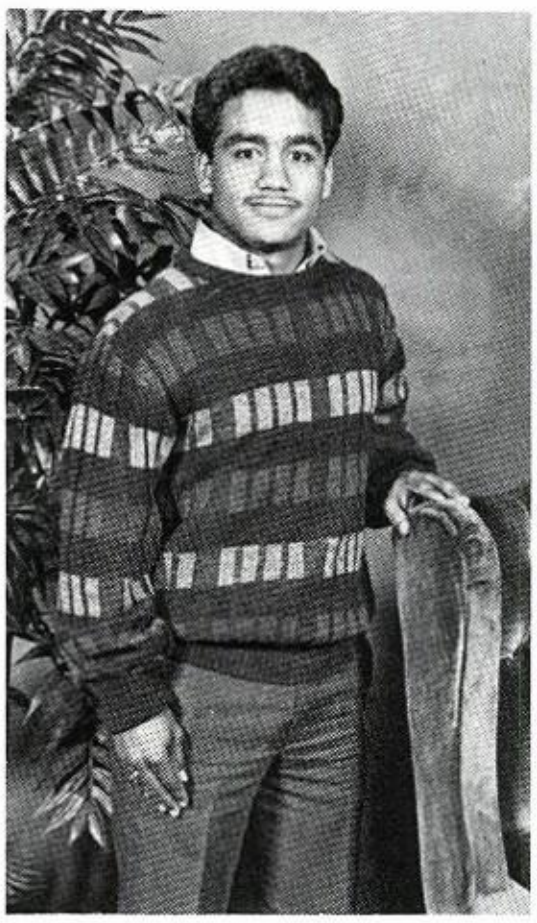
Who's Who

To you, What Is Success?

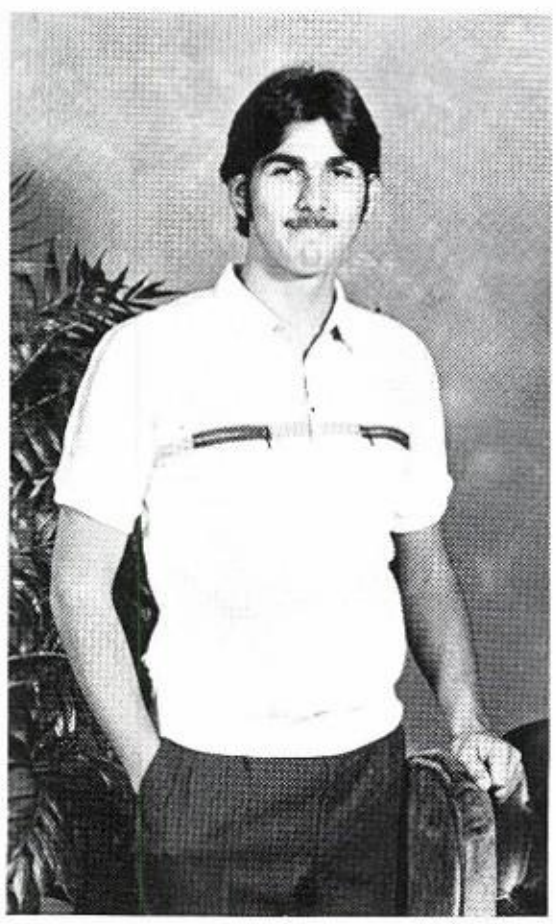
Science



Rene Montalvo

Success to me comes from within a person. A person must want to succeed. To do this, he must be determined, have a positive attitude, and never take no for an answer. He must strive for perfection, and conquer any obstacles which stand in his way.

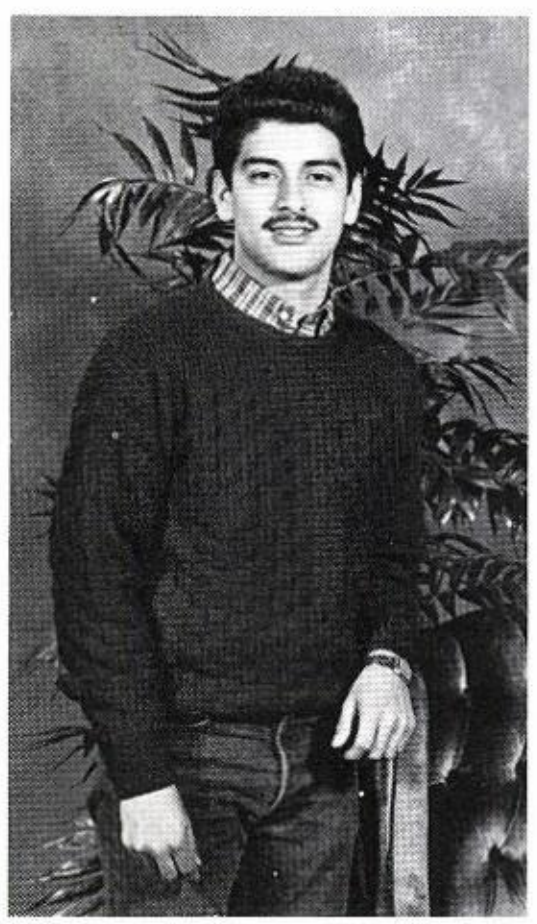
Art



Robert Navarro

When you find a goal, you work toward it. If you fail, you try again and never give up until you finally succeed.

Math



Anthony Obregon

To me, success is becoming a jet pilot in the Marine Corps.

Band

Shauna Renfro

Success is knowing in your heart that you've fulfilled your purpose in life, whether it be by making your first million before you're thirty or by just graduating from high school before you're thirty. As for my life, success would be fulfilling God's purpose for my life and letting Him have His will in everything I do.

Business

Toni Taylor

Success to me is accomplishing all the goals that I have set for myself, and being able to live a happy and fulfilling life.

Vocational Education

Maribel Trevino

Success is defined as the favorable or desired outcome of something attempted. This is correct but not complete. To me, success is knowing you are the best you can be. I used to think that having material things meant you were a success. But now, they aren't that important. Since I am about at the end of one part of my life and the beginning of another, I have begun to set goals. My next goal will be to start college and to finish with the degree that I desire.

THE PLAYOFFS

Trend Setters! These were the people most noticed at DH-J. The came in all shapes and sizes, and in all moods and mentalities.

Some focused on academic excellence and eventually became Who's Who. Some concentrated on becoming and staying "in." These folks became What's What.

Some were known for their wit; some for their wisdom.

But ALL of these trend setters represented DH-J well in a year that was sometimes trying and sometimes tedious.

When it seemed that everyone in the world was bent on breaking DH-J, our trend setters lent us their strong backs, their warm smiles, their diligent determination, and their humble but proud Eagle SPIRIT.

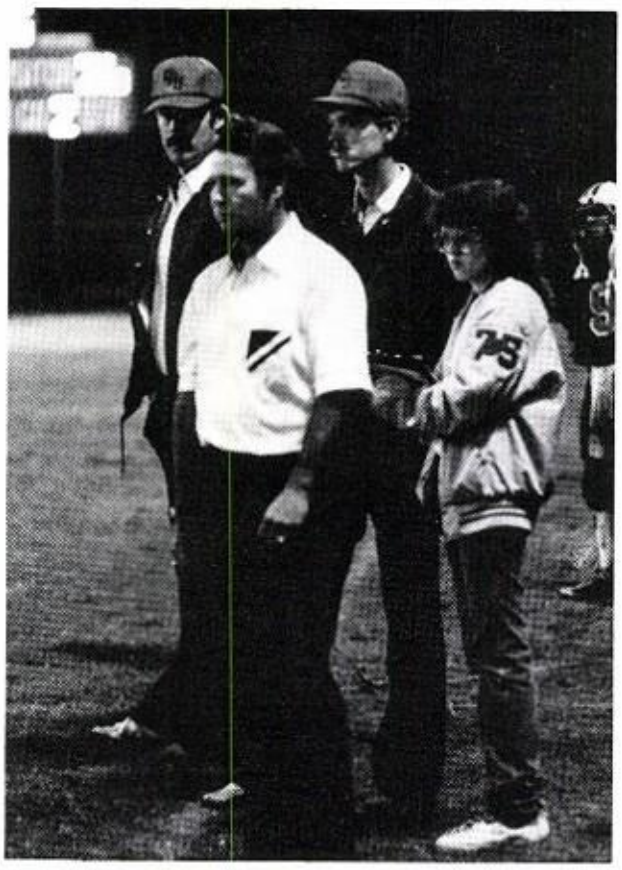
DH-J Varsity Football



Well, it's football season again. If someone had a reichtor scale, it would measure 5 because of the groans, jeers, and jokes. Although it's true, we had another winless season, we had something we never had before. We had some very exciting games in which our wins were taken away from us during the last seconds.

We also had more All-District selections than ever before. Players such as William Cox, 1st team offense, 2nd team defense; Vernard Hampton, 2nd team offense; Andre Dean, 2nd team offense. Also, we had a lot of Honorable Mention players this year. They were Michael Hart, Mark Stierwalt, Alonzo Patterson, Mark Lira, and Joe Vedia. These are the people who will help DH-J succeed next year.

But this season, although filled with excitement, will be remembered as "the season an Eagle died." His name was Vincent Crowder, and we dedicated, however bad, this season to him. This was his year.

Vincent Crowder was an athlete,
an athlete extraordinaire
He was great on any field he chose to participate,
for he had fun in every place,
and friends in every wake.
Vincent's friends were happy anywhere,
for they knew that Vincent cared.
He would help the downtrodden,
like the knights of long ago.
Rest in peace, Vincent Crowder.
The light of the world has

Bump, Set, Spike-Win!

Bumps are most commonly known as dance steps in which people "bump" their bodies together. Spikes are usually things that people do to one beverage with another beverage. Sets are commonly known to math scholars as groups of numbers with some identifiable qualities.

In volleyball, bumps are used to receive the ball and to pass it to another player. A set is made to place the ball in position for a strong strategic move. Spikes are performed when bumps and sets are successful and are hit at a downward angle onto the opponent's floor.

This season our varsity team won only a few games, but played as if it was a winning team. Due to new U.I.L. requirements, preseason included two weeks practice before the first game. "No pass-no play" caused the team to lose four players. But the highlight of the season was winning the third place trophy in the DH-J tournament.

At the close of the season, the team said goodbye, with roses, to the four veteran seniors, Beth Bond, TaRhonda Carr, Rhonda Smith, and Glenda Gutierrez. Their winning coach for the season and forever was Ms. Val Spacher.

JV: Off The Ground

The jumping and jiving JV Volleyball girls jarred the district by winning, winning and winning! They electrified all with their plays and told the district where quality lived. District coaches were amazed when they found out the truth. Some were beaten by the JV volleyball team twice in the same year.

Of course, like everyone else in Texas, JV team members were affected by House Bill 72. Those who failed courses the first six weeks were benched the second. For some, this was heart-breaking. For some, it meant the opportunity to "start." And everyone learned that rules were rules when, because of benched players, the remaining team members were absorbed by the Varsity team.

JV Volleyball was coached by Mrs. Joan Van Gorder.

Fish Girls All Blast Off

The freshman foxes fought fire with fire. Thé phenominal DH-J freshman volleyball team blasted into orbit and took the district by storm in 1985. Only now have they begun to slow down. Led by Commander Marsha Stierwalt, the Diamond Hill-Jarvis Lady Eagles (better known as Stierwalt's Savage Sprites) literally demolished opponents without working up a sweat.

It is unknown whether the Fabulous Freshman are a new breed of athletes, but they are a sign of better things to come for the DH-J volleyball program. They will make DH-J a team that will be feared by all opposing teams, and and one day bring back the word "championship" to the dictionary at DH-J.

Juniors, this year, had the responsibility for getting the job done on the basketball court. Only four seniors played: Clyde Johnson, Bubba King, Gene Lusk, and Eric Ruelas. Even though the bulk of the team was young, each player reached inside himself to surpass his opponents.

With the yelling, screaming, shouting, and cheering ringing in the ears, they realized they had the support of the school.

Before anyone knew it, the team had set goals, followed through, and reached them. From Coach Jim Wilson came the inspiration to play as one with unity; with success.

A DH-J Double Play

The 1985-86 Eage baseball team proved to themselves, as well as to others, that they were a winning team. The games were full of excitement, suspense, and lots of spirit.

When asked "Which baseball player do you admire most," Bobby Sanchez replied, "Buddy Bell because he's competitive at playing defensively and offensively."

"I can't predict the season, but I'm gonna live 100%" was Ken Salazar's reply when he was asked "How well do you think your going to do this year?" Francisco Tenorio replied "We have the best pitching staff that DH-J has ever had, so I'm confident that we'll win."

Tennis: Is It Love Or Advantage?

Tennis was one of the most enjoyable sports around. When asked how the season would turn out this year, Beth Bond replied "If we have enough players, this season should be great." Tennis gave DH-J athletes the opportunity to meet students from different schools.

"I think we will do fine if we practice, work hard, and stay in shape. Sometimes it's okay to lose. We practice harder anyway." said Han Dinh.

Tennis was played in the spring when the days are hot and the nights are cool. This years team was great and played every game to the best of their abilities.

Running With The Wind

This years Track team started off on the right foot. Returning tracksters Toan Dinh, William Cox, and Kenny Bates helped make the season great. Newcomers Bobby Salgado, Tung Dinh, Richard Saenz, Charles Hogue, Gabriel Martinez, Jose Martinez and Silas Arizola worked hard to keep the old timers on their toes.

Practice was extra tough this season because of all the newcomers. Each trackster worked on building up strength and stamina, and on building up endurance for the long hard runs. Coach Mark Krug and Tom Armstrong helped motivate and strengthen the team.

Coach Terry Bowie and Coach Joan Van Gorden helped the track girls perform to the best of their abilities.

GET OFF MY CASE

"Hard shell" is the name that scientists use to classify turtles, but some human beings have hard shells, too. High schoolers, especially, wear plates of armour. They dare teachers to dent them. Let a teacher make an unusual request, announce an untimely pop test, or require an overly long assignment, and you'll hear numerous hard shells cry, "Get off my case."

"Oh, I hope she doesn't single me out today," is a familiar prayer - and "Oh, why does she always pick on me," is a familiar lament.

But teachers make the school go 'round. No doubt about that. What would you have to complain about if not teachers? And when you think about it, it's teachers who give you enough courage to drop your armour

BLAST OFF

The Rookies Take Over

When you buy something new, newness is wonderful: cool! But when YOU're the something that's new, newness isn't so hot. Being the new kid on the block is tough. Ask anyone.

Being the new teacher or the new principal on the block is tough, too.

Some of the "rookies" assigned to DH-J were a little apprehensive about coming to the most publicized school in town. Most learned, however, as Coach Tom Armstrong did, that "Diamond Hill is great. It's nothing like I read and heard about." Ms. Carolyn Littleton agreed and added, "I love teaching on the Hill."

BUZZ OFF

Starting Off Schedule

I bet you've heard of teachers' pets, but have you heard of teachers' pests.

Some teachers hated going to school each day knowing that they had to spend classtime with at least one pest. Examples of pests are students who talk too much during class, students who ask questions just to stall for time, and students who give too many excuses for not doing their work and let's not forget the students who talk while teachers are giving instructions and then have the nerve to ask a question the teacher has already answered!

How do teachers cope with these students? Do they ignore them or sent them to the vice-principal?

Mr. Henry Walton said, "I ignore adverse behavior. If that doesn't work I usually write them an infraction. Hopefully that will change their act."

Another teacher, Mr. Ed Vernon replied, "Well, I use pests for work. I have them run errands or whatever I can think of."

Some teachers try different approaches. Coach Jim Wilson said, "I try to put pests on the spot and make them explain exactly what I just said. "Scare tactics, huh, Coach?"

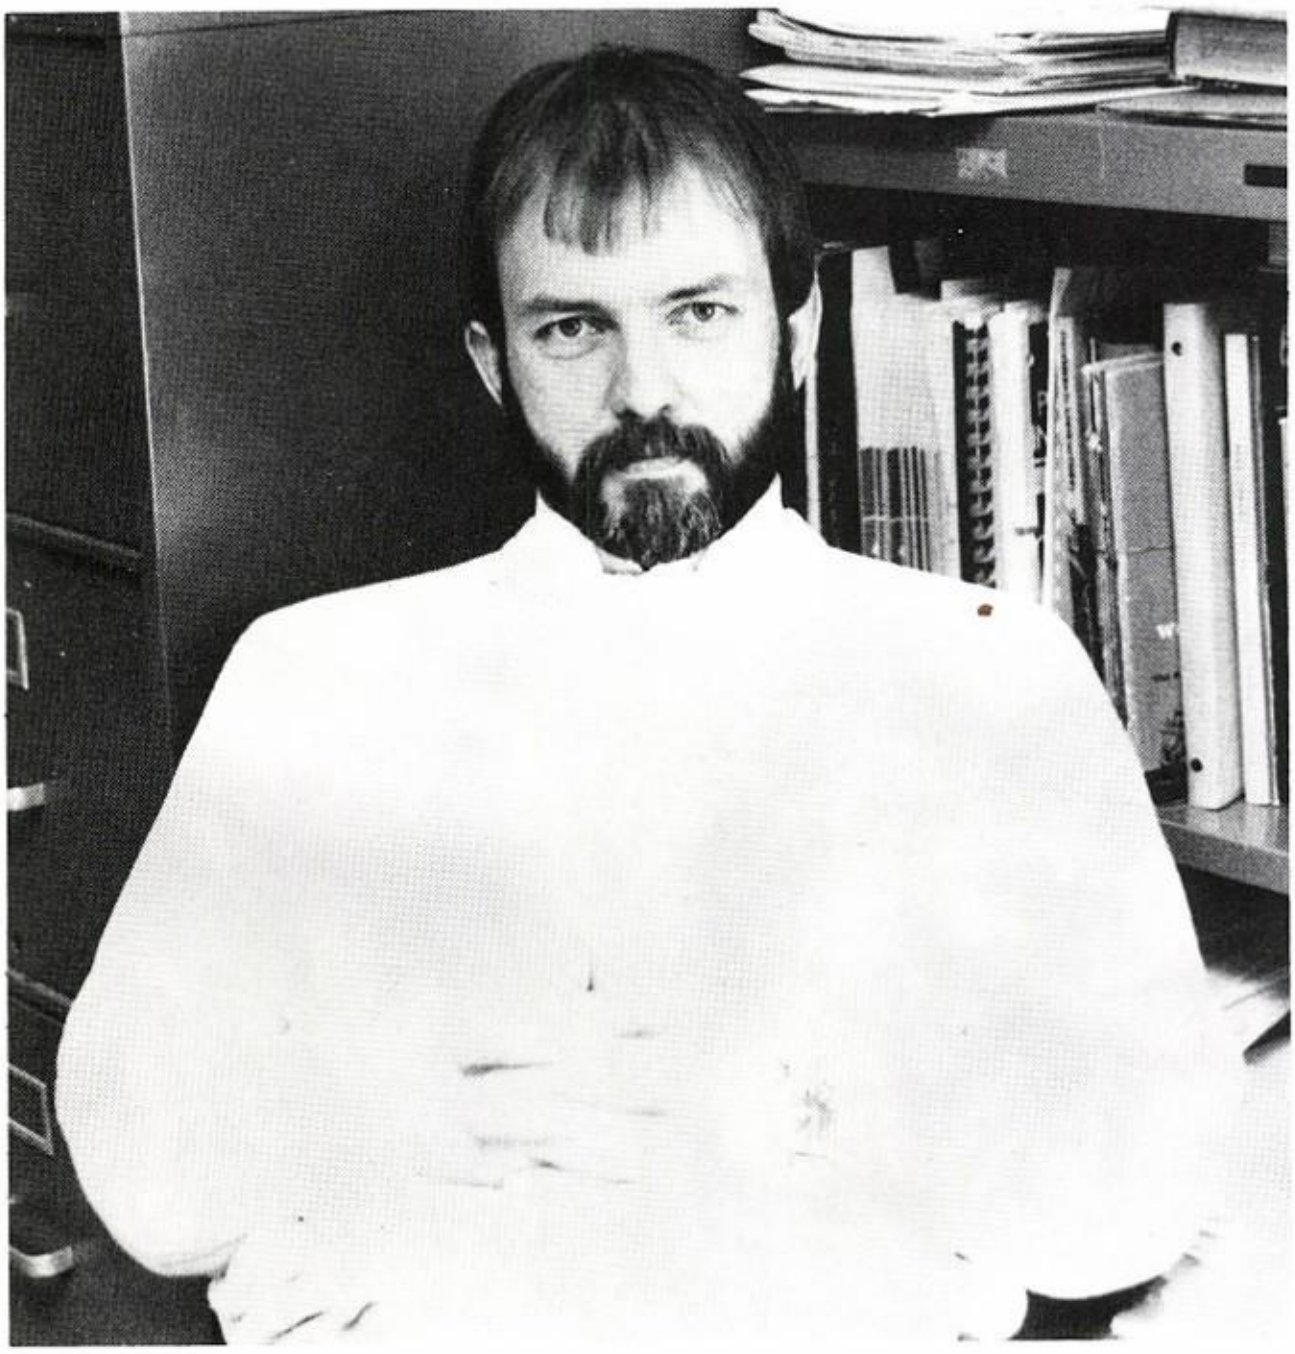
KISS OFF

Here's to you, Teach

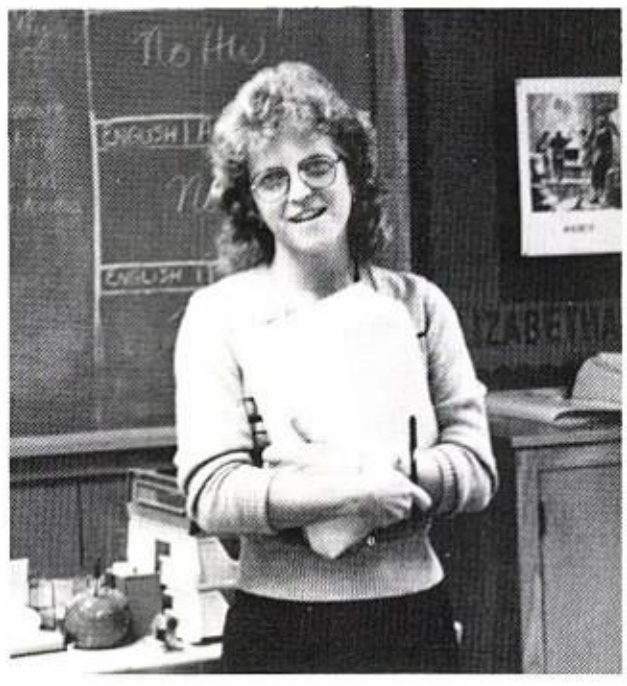
In yearbooks, students are praised for their achievements. But who makes students want to achieve? Who gives them the knowledge to achieve? Teachers, that's who! Here's to you!



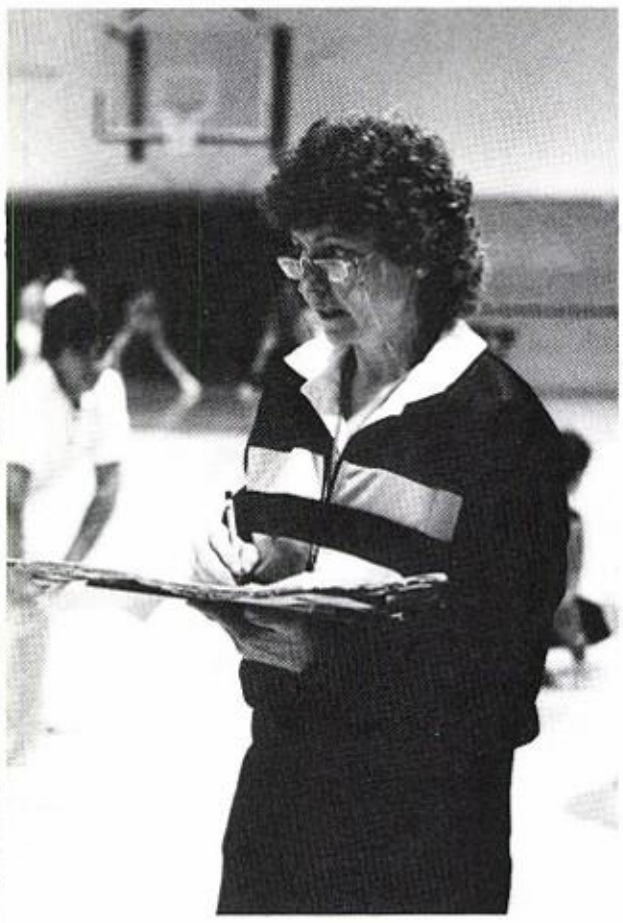
Coach Craig Stacy "is dedicated to this work. He never gives up."

Ms. Nancy Montague "always has time for me."

Mrs. Bonnie Robinson "is nice to me. She has time for everyone."

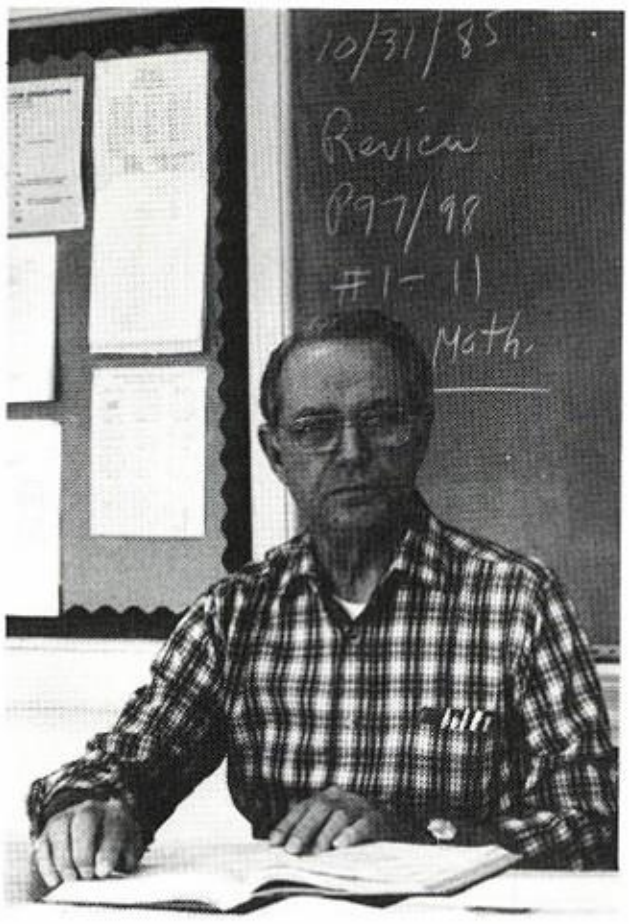


Ms Honey Burns "is a great inspiration in my education."



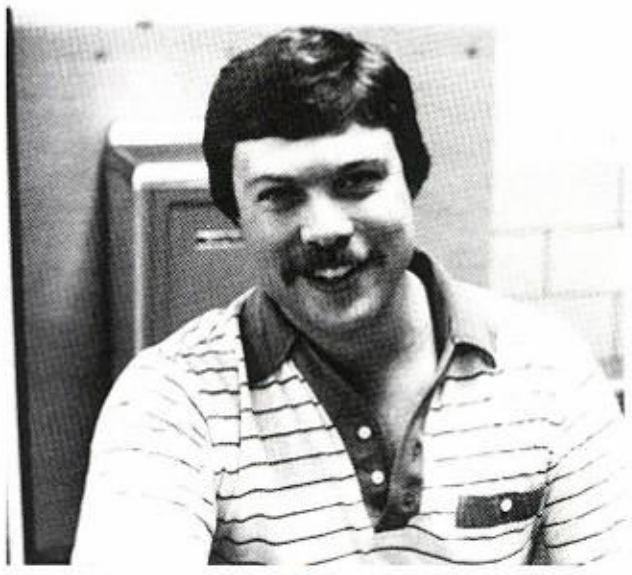
Ms. Val Spacher "is serious about coaching, but she's a very understanding person."

Mrs. Linda Palmer "makes learning easy. She teaches us in ways that we understand."



Mr. Ed Vernon "knows what he's talking about."

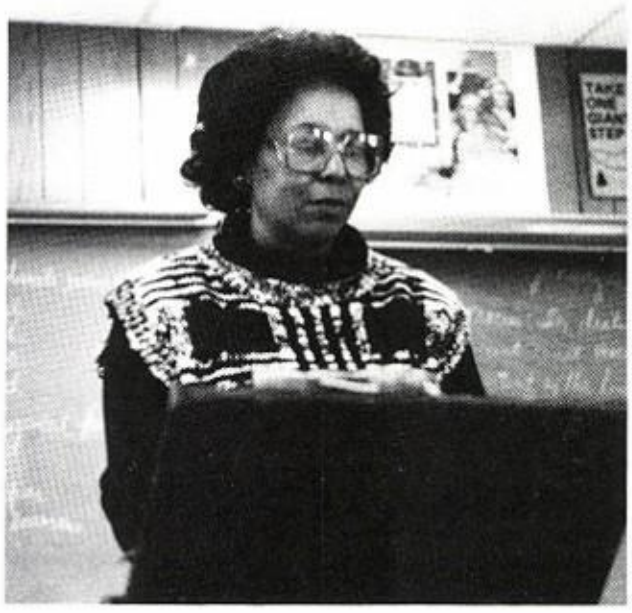
Mrs. Jan Hardin "is funny. She has a great sense of humor."



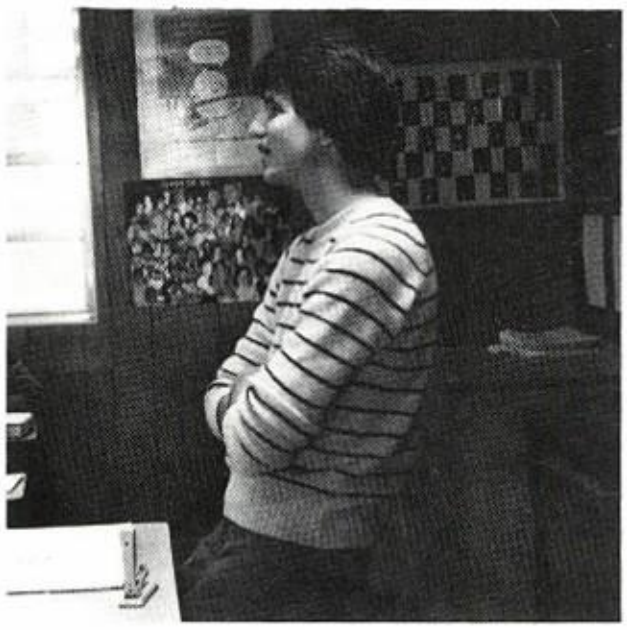
Mr. Al Quear "helps me a lot. He's cool."

Mrs. Normia Lyles "is committed to what she does. She makes you achieve."

Mrs. Carol Coulson "takes time out to help you. She brings out the best in you."



Mrs. Essie Johnson "is a good teacher, a funny teacher, and a cool teacher."



Mr. Gary Braudaway "is always there to talk to when you have a problem. He be's your friend."

OFF STAGE

VOE, Band, Thespians- what do they all have in common? Yeah, sure, they're all DH-J clubs, but what else? They're all very unique. Each club has it's own slang! Strange, you say? It's true. Only VOE ers know what a CPT is. Only Thespians and football players know what blocking is-and they don't even speak the same language! Your probably in a club, right? What were some of your favorite slang words? Whether picas, fan kicks, "L" stands, or flashes come to mind, they're still, in a sense, slang words. So, whether Mrs. Palmer is teaching you how to be a teacher or how to be a scientist, you'll know there's always going to be some slang involved.

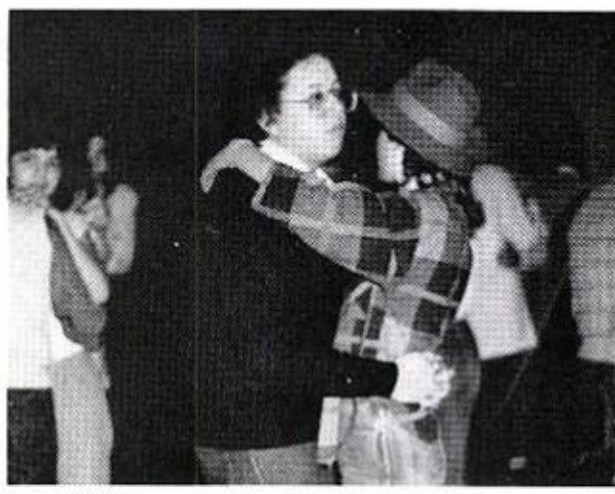
Student Leadership



The Student Council is an important part of Eagle spirit. It formulated ideas and carried out plans for fund-raising, Homecoming, and school dances. It kept Eagle spirit alive and going. It provided student leadership at Diamond Hill-Jarvis.

The Student Council was led by President Kenny Salazar, Vice President Shauna Renfro, Secretary Nancy Dela Rosa, and Treasurer David Ellis. The Student Council was sponsored by Dr. Madell Bailey and Mrs. Shirley Burley.

Dedicated Decathletes

Friday night, January 31: The evening began with a knot of anticipation in the stomachs of the students gathered at L.D. Bell High School. They had come from all over Fort Worth and the Mid-Cities to begin the first round of competition in the 3rd Annual Academic Decathalon. The essay competition began at 7:40 p.m. and ended at 8:30 p.m. and was followed by a mini-party at the local ice-cream "joint".

Saturday morning, 7:30 a.m.: Breakfast was served at the L.D. Bell cafeteria. At 8:15, contestants reported to their homerooms and began the first test in mathematics at 8:30. They continued testing until later that evening, but the schedule allowed for several breaks in between tests and time for words of encouragement from their coaches.

Saturday evening, February 1: During the awards ceremonies Diamond Hill learned that they had increased their scores over last year's by a cool 42%. Not Bad!

UIL-Unbelievable!

When most people hear that you're in the UIL competition, they think you are stuffy and snobby; that you're extremely smart. The truth is that UIL competitors are not stuffy and not snobby-just extremely smart. They know where they want life to take them.

The place was Boswell High School. Time: the 1st week of April. With returning UIL competitors Beth Bond, Nhung Bui, Han Dinh, Kathy Edwards, Shelly Ford, Tammi Hegwood and Shauna Renfro teaming their talents with newcomers Mariaelena Pena, Nancy Lopez, Alma Vega, Norma Ortiz, Dwain Wyche, and David Stierwalt, the DH-J team was stronger than ever in the areas of literature interpretation, ready writing, science, and spelling.

Sideline Kickoffs

Summer camp was over, practice was an everyday grind, preparing for pep rallies was a hassle - but it all paid off. The 1985-86 Cheerleaders were successful. They showed pride and devotion throughout the year.

Because of their hard work, students complimented them. "The Cheerleaders are doing a fantastic job this year," stated Cindy Medellin.

"They're not snobs, and they're really good," said Christy Bankhead. Sincerity was the heart and experience was the backbone of the '85-'86 squad. Among them, they possessed 12 years of cheerleading experience.

The squad was sponsored by Ms. Joan Van Gorder.

Kicking Up Our Heels

Who said Drill Team didn't kick? Sponsored by Jan Hardin, they showed us what the best legs at Diamond Hill could do. First lieutenant Missy Byrns taught drill team members the meaning of being a Jewel. It meant being proud, hardworking, sharp, and dedicated.

After "no pass no play" was put into effect, many of the Jewels were benched for the remainder of the 1985 football season, but the remaining six showed the kind of spirit and pride that had never been seen at DH-J before.

Competitions and clinics made up a big part of the year, and DHJ was represented well.

Band: Ready, Set, Go!

The 1985-86 Golden Eagle Marching Band was an exciting experience for all new members, for all upperclassmen, for the drum major, and for the teacher.

Fewer numbers of freshmen and upperclassmen took part, but Drum Major Bobby Sanchez coped with the new numbers and created an exceptionally worthy band.

The biggest challenge was to the new director of the band, Ms. Carolyn Littleton. She brought with her a new concept "Band-Ready, Set, Go!" To the pep-rallies, she added a touch of spice by placing the band on the stage instead of in the traditional pit. Asked what he thought of Ms. Littleton, Sean Lyles replied, "I think she has a lot of high expectations, and it should be good for the music program."

"No pass, no play" had a big impact on the band. Participation on and off the field declined. Although they still had courage to go out on the field with only 15 marching members, they received a rating of 3 at the U.I.L. Marching Contest.

The last half-time show of 1985 included a farewell to the Seniors of 1986. The show consisted of comic-strip readings, ring-around-the-rosy, and anything and everything else imaginable. At the game, the Band Sweetheart and Beau were announced. Dana Gandolph, and Ralph Romero.

On the whole the Band had a good year. Even though there were tough times, the band stayed in step.

Remember The HEROes

HEROes in 1986 were not only on television. We had HEROes here at ol' DH-J, too.

PELE HEROes were HEROes from Child Development. They performed in many activities this year. And working with children was a heck of a job.

HECE HEROes were HEROes that worked their way up to the top. They worked on top of coming to school everyday. (Well, almost everyday).

CVAE HEROes cooked their way through life. They prepared food for teachers meetings, and even more important stuff.

But, the HEROes had a lot of activities during 1985-1986. Every year FHA HEROes prepared a Christmas program for the Jarvis Nursing Home . . . what a group, huh?

Now you know why we called them HEROes.

Child Abuse?? Never!!

PELE was originated to prepare DH-J students for the world of children.

Mrs. Karen Welch sponsored Child Development in 1985-1986.

According to Child Development students, "Mrs. Welch does a great job. She knows all there is to know about kids."

In 1986 there was a change in class periods. Only one lab class was allowed. One period was spent learning about children and their behavior, and the next two periods were spent demonstrating what they had learned.

Child Development "taught me a lot about kids, and how to work with them. Maybe some day it will help me with my own," said Rosie Hernandez.

Child Development was also active in "The March of Dimes", "The Great American Smokeout", and with Christmas, Valentine's Day, and Easter activities.

Working For A Living

HECE was the class that students joined to learn how to work with others on the job.

According to senior Frank Mayo, HECE introduced students to careers in food service, child care, consumer aid, housekeeping, management, and the clothing and apparel industries. The class was meant to help students become working adults. Mrs. Bonnie Robinson sponsored the group. Lisa Lewis served as President.

Besides getting paid and receiving credit for work, the students really enjoyed the class. The explanation, Donald Geeo said, "was that Mrs. Robinson was cool and didn't get on our nerves."

We're Cookin' Now!!

CVAE was the class that helped students learn to cook. It also taught them to read recipes and follow cooking instructions.

On why she signed up for food services, Rachel Franco said, "I like cooking, because I like to create different entrés."

"I think Mrs. Lyles is a good teacher. She's also nice and cool," said Lisa Garcia.

When asked if he will cook after he's married, Manuel Gonzales replied, "No way!"

The class itself lasted two periods a day. During this time period, people learned and experimented with food. These experiments were conducted on guinnea pigs: the TEACHERS! Every Wednesday, teachers went to the CVAE room and pigged out! The food must have been good because all the teachers are still around (unfortunately . . .)

CVAE was sponsored by Mrs. Normia Lyles.

TAFE Trains Teachers

With the faith of a mustard seed, in days when the mere mention of Texas House Bill 72 sparked fire in the eyes of students, parents, and teachers alike, Mrs. Linda Palmer quietly trudged along with a group called the Texas Association of Future Educators (TAFE).

Every Tueday after school, TAFE met to learn what teachers do, and how to help teachers. Presiding over TAFE were President Adolfo Hoyos, Vice President Vickie Lorona, and Secretary Jesse Hernandez.

Tipped Off The Tongue

Once upon a time, there was a choir program at DH-J. The student drop-out rate, however, increased so dramatically in 1985-86 that the number of teachers employed at DH-J had to be decreased. So band and choir were taught for the first time by a single teacher: Ms. Carolyn Littleton.

Asked how she felt about teaching choir here, Ms. Littleton replied, "I enjoy training older voices. Before, I worked with middle school kids."

Even though choir was still offered, some students were upset that it got lost in the shuffle of numbers. Michael Ayala said, "It seems like there aren't any electives left. What will get axed next?" But for those who managed to schedule the class, it was worthwhile. According to Yolanda Johnson, "Choir is fun, and I like Ms. Littleton."

Blast Off With Science

Mrs. Linda Palmer, the sponsor of the Science Club, did not hesitate to schedule her first field trip. The trip was planned so that the Science Club could entice new people into joining. The trip was scheduled on September 19, Destination: The Fort Worth Nature Center.

New members went to the Fort Worth Buffalo Range. Unhappily, the only animals that could be seen were prairie dogs and deer. Someone asked David Ellis if he had seen any buffaloes. "No," he replied, "but I could sure smell them!"

At each of the other Science Club meetings, Mrs. Palmer conducted experiments which pertained to science. With each experiment, members learned something new. Some experiments that were done tested how much Ph is in different products; how many calories are in food items; and which direction plants grow.

Science Club was led by dedicated President Bobby Sanchez, Vice-President Jarrod Monreel, Secretary Jose Martinez, and Reporter Patricia Chism.

VOE: Working It Off

Vocational Office Education and it's corresponding organization, Office Education Association gave students a chance to learn efficient and effective office skills. It also gave them an opportunity to get an office job. Most VOE-OEA students attended school half a day and then went to work for the remainder of each day.

VOE and OEA were sponsored by Mrs. Carol Coulson, who taught the class and monitored job status for each student.

Jets High In The Sky

This years Jet Team taught young people the consequences of alcohol and drug abuse. Many young people today are experimenting with drugs and alcohol, so the Jet Team went out to try to combat the growing epidemic. A lot of young people don't realize what alcohol and drugs do to their minds and bodies, what it does to them mentally and physically.

The Jet Team with all it's knowledge visited many of the surrounding schools. They went to Meacham Middle, M.H. Moore Elementary and Diamond Hill Elementary. The Jet Team also talked to the students here at Diamond Hill Jarvis. Mrs. Jan Hardin sponsored the team.

Eagle Eyewitnesses

Extra! Extra! Write all about it. Journalism was added to the 1986 DH-J program of classes. At mid-term, it was decided that the Eagle Eye Witness should be resurrected. A staff was selected and promptly adjourned into three working groups: the Brat Pak, the Dream Team, and Moats.

The EEW staff wrote and published three issues this first year First, however, they had to learn about leads, outlining, features, interviewing, and ethics. It was the journalists' job to poll students, interview teachers, and review recent events. Good coverage required I.D. (imagination and depth). What doesn't these days?

The EEW staff was sponsored by Ms. Nancy Montague. Not pictured were Missy Byrns, Nancy Dela Rosa, and Sean Lyles.

So you want to build your own home? Don't go to Fox and Jacobs go to Diamond Hill-Jarvis Building Trades. They have the quality and skill that is taught to them by Mr. Walter Wade.

The Building Trade students worked hard this summer building a new annex for M.H. Moore Elementary. They did a really nice job on it and were rewarded with A+'s.

Even during the Fall, The Building Trades team constructed new and even better annexes for use elsewhere in the district.

Students can learn many skills in Building Trades. Just think: they probably didn't even know what a hammer and nail were until Mr. Wade came along. Now, they can build anything they want with the skills they have!

We're Born To Run!!!

DH-J's 1986 Eagle Staff was "born to run" - born to run around taking pictures; born to run after possible class button customers; and often born to run from Ms. Montague.

The story started at our summer workshop, where we learned how to take pictures, write copy, and come up with deadlines. But we didn't really understand how big our job was until school started and there were activities to cover, sports to photograph, clubs to find out about, and teachers to keep track of.

22 of the 26 member staff were seniors, who had varying goals and varying joys. April Briggs appreciated the fact that she had the power finally to put her thoughts and feelings into print. Dana Gandolph, however, just wanted to produce "the best yearbook possible for my senior class."

Often there wasn't time to analyze what was happening to us. There was always a deadline just around the corner. But when it was all said and done, we found that "The Wall" wasn't as hard to climb as we'd once thought because we helped each other get over it!

HITTING IT OFF

Ooops! You let that word slip out again, huh? Don't worry, the teacher probably didn't even know what it meant. But what if she did? You were always so sure she was a perfect angel. What if she said words like that, too - when no one was around, of course? No, impossible. She was calling things "groovy" and "far out," when we were calling them "bad" and "awesome."

Remember the day when that girl in government kept blowing your mind. She was a punk. You were a prep. She insisted that your purse was "tripindicular." You said that it was "radical." You were both right. It was a BAD purse.

If you're sitting in class right now, wondering what the next "in" word will be, watch out! The teacher's listening

How To Deal With Senior Stress

"I wonder if I'll pass" was a question many seniors asked themselves. Getting through the Senior year at DH-J was tough. Tougher than any other.

First, getting into the habit of studying was difficult. We'd never done that before, and it was one of the major things seniors have to do, especially in Government and English.

Second, deadlines were headaches. Seniors had to learn to beat deadlines. Deadlines were always part of ordering invitations, picking out prom clothes, completing term papers, and taking senior pictures.

Third, relationships were troublesome. Relationships seemed to be on and off things. Underclassmen who had relationships with seniors felt left out simply because of the seniorit that separated seniors from unde classmen.

There really was no one way to de with senior stress. Some daydreame to escape the pressure. Some hel their breath until Graduation Da Well, most held their breath unt Graduation Day.

It's Just About Over

The day for us to step out into the Real World was approaching. It all started last year when we were juniors. The class rings arrived and we felt, for the first time, that we might actually get to be seniors one day. There were different ring styles, sizes, and colors. Every ring was different. Every ring was special. And everyone showed off.

"Invitations are here!" It was time again to look back through the years. Invitations were announcements that seniors wrote to invite you to the last gathering of the senior class. It meant a lot to seniors to have loved ones, family, and friends present when they crossed that stage into the Real World.

Invitaions made some seniors sad. Graduating, to them, was sad. "I don't want to leave 'cause all my friends are here, and I'm not prepared for the BIG world," said David Ellis. Most seniors actually feared graduating.

But while working hard and dreaming big, anything can happen!

The Skip Day That Almost Wasn't Happened For The DH-J POS

Every year according to tradition (and the Student/Teacher Articles of War), the Senior Class of DH-J arranged to go AWOL on a spring day. This class was no exception. Where they went no one knew.

At 700 hours on THE day, the camp commandant prepared her troops to search and seize the POW's who arrived late for do-or-die tests.

John Alba, the camp guard, marched through the prison to make sure no one escaped the torture chambers.

The impossible did happen, however. The POS (Prisoners of School) escaped to the nearest neutral zones on Senior Skip Day 1986.

Senioritis: Rx Party

When it's party time in the spring, all seniors catch Senioritis. Otherwise normal teenagers become space cadets and air heads, and you can't tell who's radical and who's narly. You just want to step back and say "Get real!" But then you look at yourself and say "Embarrassed for me!"

You catch seniorits whether you like it or not. It's everywhere you go. Seniorits is what seniors get when they go crazy or party every weekend with all their friends. During the week in school, seniors get really lazy and sleep during class. Some goof off and kick back.

They goof off so they won't worry too much about graduating and leaving all their friends behind. Makes sense!

Seniors Experience Senior Blues

The day that nobody thought would get here finally did. The day the Senior program took place was the day the Seniors graduated.

Twelve years had passed in a flash, and no one seemed to realize it.

As freshmen, we walked around wishing we were seniors, but that time was so far away that we never really gave it much thought.

When we were sophomores, we felt high and mighty just because we weren't as lowly as the poor freshmen.

When we became juniors, the truth finally hit us: we had two years down, and two to go. But it didn't really bother us that the best years of our lives would end in just two short years.

After our junior year passed, we got real. We were Seniors! And every moment was a moment to cry about: Christmas (our last one at DH-J), the last game, Homecoming, the prom, graduation . . .

Yes, twelve years had passed. It seemed as if only 12 months ago we were starting first grade with all our friends. And as the last year of high school came and went, it seemed like the end was near. Little did we know that new beginnings were ahead.

To The Prom, James

Oh Man! We got down, jammed and pigged out at the 1986 Senior Prom. This was no time to be wearing your Levi's 501's. It was time to look totally awesome. As everyone began to arrive, some in limo's, some in mom and dad's car, and some in who knows what, the scene was posh but radical.

Walking in and feeling like Forever Crystal and Carrington from "Dynasty," whenever we saw someone, it was like O'MiGod! Teachers and photographers and strangers were trying to out do the others. Little did anyone know what events were to come.

As the evening drew on and the ceremony came to a close, everyone was feeling like tripindicular and gag me because they were ready to put away the munchies and get down and party!

After exhausting themselves at dancing and dinner, the night closed in on the last moments of the prom. Memories of the toast to the Class of 1986 and the turning of class rings would always be impressed on their minds.

Looking back now, we see the narley meal we had and the "big time" dancing we did, and the person we heard yell "TAXI!"

How To Spell Relief: Graduation

Caps, gowns, and invitations were a big part of graduation- and they all cost money! December was a hectic month for the seniors. They were pressured with how many invitations to get, what size caps and gowns they would need, and where they would get the money to pay the bills.

By the time the seniors found the answers to all the questions and problems that plagued them, it was time for them to graduate. The time slipped away and they were out of school. When they finally finished and made it all the way through, they wished they hadn't. They wished they could turn the hands of Time back and recapture the fun they had in school because all they had was their memories.

Memories of their friends and thei teachers lingered. But the most cher ished of all their memories was th time they walked across the stage an were handed their diplomas. The sec ond the diplomas hit their hands, ther were many sighs of relief because the finally made it!

PMS Strikes As "Monday Blues"

PMS (Permanent Monday Syndrome) strikes when you're sitting in class, listening to a teacher's lecture, pondering the topic . . . All of a sudden, you get mad at the person next to you-for no particular reason, except that it's Monday-and you slap him.

What are Monday Blues? What effect does the "Blue" have on you? And what is the result? DISEASE! That's what Monday Blues bring on. Temper, PMS, and Frustration! Also Detention, Suspension, and Infraction!!!

Being at DH-J on Monday is like being in "The Danger Zone." Friend ships exist only in the 5th dimension Fighting exists in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, an 4th. But at days end, you feel bad even sorry-only you're too proud t say so. Sooo-you just hope the Mon day Blues will blow over and be forgot ten.

TGIF: Thank God! It's Friday!

Friday is the sixth day of the week. The name was originated by Norse Friggs, the goddess of married love and housewifery. Friggs parallels the Roman Goddess Venus, for whom the day was named in the Roman week: dies Vederis.

Friday has long been associated with bad fortune: originally, Christ's cruxifixion. Yet Fridays now are associated with parties: birthday parties, wedding parties, Christmas parties, etc. . . According to the students of Diamond Hill Jarvis, "it is a day to get down with friends and have a good time," said Manny Valdez.

To teachers, Friday is known as V-E Day. Why? "Isn't it obvious," Ms. Honey Burns heartily explained, "Friday is the last day of the school week." Nevertheless Fridays bring on the coming of the weekends. In everyone's mind Fridays are a national tradition to loosen up your tie and let your hair down.

Closed Club For Closed Chubs

What is C.H.U.B.S.? C.H.U.B.S. is the Cheerleaders, Homeboys, Underclassmen, and Beerbellies Society of Diamond Hill. They are unique and unusual in that only a select few can join. C.H.U.B.S. are not the most popular but to the members they come pretty close!

Cheerleaders are an example of a C.H.U.B.S. club. It is hard to get into this club because not all girls have the time, desire, or the money it takes to be accepted. Nowadays to be a cheerleader, you have to be smart. Cheerleaders today are breaking the age-old mold. They aren't air-heads.

The underclassmen are hard to join, they don't allow seniors in their club. The Jam Boys only allow juniors tha can rap, dance, and prep to join.

The beer-bellies are outrageous You have to know how to party!! takes a lot of courage to party righ So start studying, it's the only way t join the exclusive C.H.U.B.S. club.

Caution: Beware Of Notebooks

Students' notebooks have long been despised. Since the dawn of public education, notebooks have been unorganized, messy, clutsy . . . and if the truth was known, as disgusting to students as to teachers.

Now you know why teachers hate notebooks. They have to grade them and that's work. But why do students hate notebooks? Number one: they have to pay 39¢ for them. Number two: they have to face their notebook grades. The reason known to all students is they have to carry them.

Cheeseburger and a Coke to go

"How many more minutes do we have?" This is the most popular question of any day at DH-J because it concerns the most popular time of any day - lunchtime.

The cafeteria is where most underclassmen spend lunchtime. Seniors fill up at Mickey D's or Taco Tex.

Some people spend lunchtime firing up a square instead. For some reason, these seem to be nervous, skinny people. Wonder why?

Studying is not the most popular thing to do at lunch, but sometimes it's necessary. Whenever, the place to be is the library.

"So how many more minutes do we have left?" Of lunchtime, never enough!

Christmas In A Winter Wonderland

Christmas at DH-J was a time that encouraged students to become closer to their friends, to be happy, and to be plain old nice. It also was a time for planning parties, drawing gift names, and having fun!

A dance was even held to celebrate the occasion. It was called "Winter Wonderland". The dance encouraged students to show true Christmas spirit. The dance was a place where students could spend time together before Christmas vacation.

Christmas was the time students and faculty alike realized how much friends and family meant to them.

"I'm Going To Tell Mom On You!"

Can you believe it? Even at school they're fighting! Brothers and sisters should make peace treaties at school. Have you noticed how Toan and Han Dinh argue every morning? It isn't uncommon among brothers and sisters. They tend to bring their quarrels to school with them.

Let's take a look at Tarhonda and Charles Carr. When they fight, there's no stopping them. What about Bobby and Michelle Sanchez? Well, if they fight, they do it quietly. Amy and Annette Gomez fight about their clothes. Peggy Brown's brother Donald never seems to stop pestering her, and Lor[illegible]ers and sisters are for?

raine, Mark, and Lisa Coronado can never agree on who gets to use the bathroom first in the morning.

When asked about what bothered her most about having Joe at DH-J, Cindy Vedia said, "He makes me sick, that's all," Well, isn't that what broth-

The Wonderful World Of DH-J Cars

Follow us now as we journey through the dangers and hazards of the DH-J parking lot. Beware of each step you take. We cannot be responsible for accidents.

Look to the left first where Ellis parks his ferocious tub (across three parking spaces). Beware also the beasts belonging to Sumu and Coronado.

As we continue through the jungle lot, be extremely cautious of even the smallest pintos, mustangs, cougars, and cobras because they sometimes spring into action as quickly as the broncos and firebirds.

Old and young savages cruise through the lot regularly. They are all vicious. Beware the silver Nissan 4 x 4, the Red Baron, and the sneaky gunmetal gray Firebird.

When you leave the Wild Kingdom, watch your step, and have a nice day.

Cheating Or Whatever It Takes.

"Cheating!" Who said, "Cheating?" Diamond Hill students don't cheat, they just use their notes . . . and their sleeves . . . and their neighbors . . . Resourceful is what DH-J students are yeah, resourceful!

For some students, cheating is a bad habit but one at which they are expert. They know when to hide their cheat sheets, how to make them small enough, and where to put them. Some people tape cheat sheets on the insides of their leg, put them on their ankles, inside their coat pockets, o their hands, on their purses, in thei books, and on the chairs in front o them.

Yep! There are all kinds of re sourceful ways to pass a class.

Braces Brighten Up Life At DH-J

Braces were one of the greatest inventions ever created by man. People young and old wore braces in 1986. Those who wore braces eventually won great smiles and better feelings about themselves. But when they first got braces, they felt like freaks.

Lots of things became hard to do with braces - kissing, eating certain foods, and yes, chewing gum! Smiling was also difficult with braces.

The names people made up over the years (Braceface, Metal Mouth, and Jaws) didn't help either. Victor Castillo said, "Braces are unusual, but they're like toilet paper. Once you tear off the first piece, the rest com easy."

"The best thing about braces is th they're different," said Norma Orti "A lot of people think they're nea The worst part is that they're ver painful, and you have to brush you teeth a lot." NO FUN!

"You Call This A Locker?!?!"

It's September 1. All the lockers sit in nice, neat, perfect, little rows, and for the only time all year, they're clean- really clean.

September 2. Their three month vacation is over. They now await the time again to be written on, mutalated, tortured, and molested.

September 3. The lockers are issued. The school rules state that students share lockers and supply locks. Bummer!

September 4. Students receive their first textbooks and start piling notebooks, pictures, tape, magnetic memo pads and mirrors into them. The first signs of student inhabitantcy begin to form.

September 30. The lockers are now thoroughly and permanently over-run with textbooks, over-due library books, gym socks, old love letters, lunch from September 15, and genera junk.

December 20. The first locke clean-out has been announced. Face of anguish and some relief materializ when students finally get to look fo the windbreakers they lost two week ago. But what will happen when th teacher finds that six people are shar ing the same locker???

Grafitti: Art Or Vandalism?

"Shush! I think someone's coming! Hide the spray paint."

Although DH-J bathroom walls weren't any cleaner than those at the bus station, they were more informative. From the bathroom walls, we learned the local news: Who was going with whom; whose boyfriends were cheating on them; whose phone numbers had just changed; and which gang was #1.

And bathroom walls weren't nearly as juicy as brick walls-but the the bricks were cleaned more often. Remember the sandblasters?

Car windows were popular places to write, too. If you wanted to know who was #1, all you had to do was scan a few car windshields. "Seniors #1." "DH-J #1." "Eagles #1"

But no ordinary telephone. I'm the DH-J Hall payphone! You tell me those dark secrets. You call home to get forgotten articles and ask for rides. You call to get those early dismissals you don't really need. But the part I love best is when you call your boy-friends and girlfriends and get mushy. I also love to hear forbidden gossip. Calendars + Candles + Candy = $

What do door to door salesmen, telephone solicitors, vendors, and high school students have in common? They're all trying to sell you something. The salesmen usually sell encyclopedias or vacuum cleaners. The telephone solicitors usually try to sell aluminum siding or family portraits. The vendors try to sell fattening foods like chips, popcorn, cotton candy, and soft drinks. But high school students sell fundraising items that include everything from candy to calendars; from candy to candles; from candy to socks; from candy to buttons; and then more candy.

It's all the same! Student fundraisers always give you the line about how if you were selling something they would buy from you. When you finally get candy, everyone seems to be on a diet or has already bought from someone else or is out of money!

Every day you see a desperate person trying to sell candy to everyone. And every day you hear people give them a lot of lousy excuses. Then it becomes your turn to sell something. And your fear of being turned down by everyone you ask is so strong that you're totally frightened to even try to sell it. Then after you've sold a couple, you become aware that there is nothing to be afraid of. Afterwards, you sell and sell and sell . . .

Surgeons wear gloves. Ministers wear robes. Presidents wear three piece suits, and DH-J students wear T-Shirts.

Although some fads have come and gone, T-Shirts have always been a special kind of fad and have been around for generations.

T-Shirts are worn to express the different moods of different people. They can also tell what kind of music people listen to, and who their idols are. Whether the music is rock or hick, and whether the idol is tweetie or Don Johnson, we see them all here at DH-J.

THAT'S WHAT FRIENDS ARE FOR

I never thought I'd feel this way,
but as far as I'm concerned,
I'm glad I got the chance to say
That I do believe in DH-J.
If I should ever go away,
close your eyes and try to feel the way I do today.

Keep smiling.
Keep shining.
Knowing I can always count on DH-J
for sure.
That's what friends
are for.
In good times,
in bad times,
I'll be on your side
forevermore.
That's what friends
are for.
